Shelving End Panels

End Panels

Pictured here for Austin Public Library are custom Rift Cut White Oak End Panels specified throughout the library. A sophisticated and timeless look.

TMC offers designers many exciting design options in shelving end panels, whether completely custom — an architectural motif pulled from a feature in the library — or cut-outs selected from TMC's CutOut™ Portfolio. Colorful layering can be created using any laminate or wood finish inside the cut-out, along with a selection from our rich palette of wood finishes.

Watsonville Public Library in California showcases how end panels can add visual beauty to the interior space.

Special surface treatment possibilities include reliefs, etchings, or inlays of wood or acrylic. Shelving can be specified as end cap panels to clad metal units, or as stand-alone wooden units. Slat-wall and book display shelves on the end panels are also available.

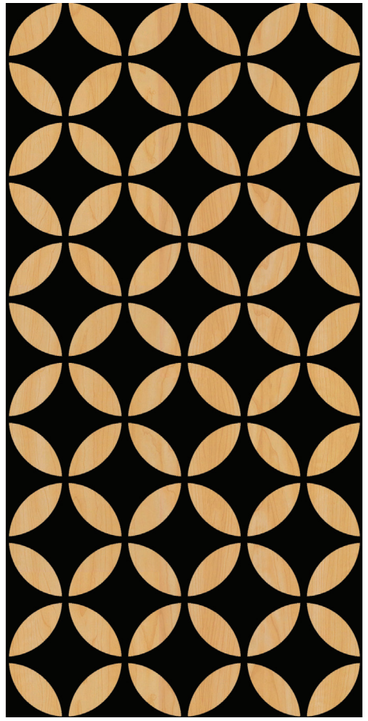
Canopy tops are available in laminate or wood. Standard sizes or custom.

For a more traditional look pictured are standard (left) and custom (above) designs in warm wood tones.

ImPrinted End Panels

We offer the ImPrinted technique on our End Panels as well. From bold and bright to a more quiet hue. The color palette is huge, based on CMYK color inks. Add pattern, photographs or signage (as shown far right). The wood is present offering a gorgeous and arresting look. Choose from our standard imagery offerings or custom.



Pictured here are custom end panels of images of buildings around Silver Springs, Maryland. Tasteful and adds a beautiful color palette and texture to the library's interior.
